

EVANS ON THE NAVY'S GROWTH

ADMIRAL SAYS IT IS KEEPING AHEAD OF RIVALS.

During of Oil for Fuel, He Says, is a Great Advance. Secretary of Navy's Reorganization Plan is Admirable. Expects Trouble With Japan Some Day.

When Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans, retired, delivered a lecture in Carnegie Hall a year ago last January he sat on a chair with his crutches beside him. Later his condition was such that he could not get about at all.

At the Plaza Hotel yesterday the Admiral showed that he was physically the fighting Bob of old. He had grappled with his ancient enemy, rheumatism, and overcome it, and he looked twenty years younger than when he got through sailing the Atlantic battleship fleet around the world half of its globe girdling cruise.

Just made the doctors walk the plank, said the Admiral yesterday in telling how he had got well again. "I had tried all sorts of remedies and cures and didn't get better. So I just made up my mind that the thing to do was to diet. I stopped eating meat. I gave up everything in the nature of alcoholic beverages, ate little and regularly. I year ago I was able to throw away my crutches, and for the last few months I have been able to do without a cane much of the time. In fact I only have to use it in the case of some wounds I got in my legs in the civil war."

"I was in a pretty bad condition when I got back from the cruise. I had been on the China station for a long time, and in all I was something like three years and eight months at sea. That's pretty long to be cooped up in a steel box, and I had had six severe attacks of my malady when I got back to stay on land. But I would rather be at sea than on land. There is absolutely nothing in the world like commanding a big fleet of warships. I am a business man now, there is nothing I enjoy so much as thinking over the old days at sea."

"Aside from the results of that round the world cruise that were apparent at the time or soon afterward, there has been an important result in regard to the personnel of the enlisted men in the navy. We are getting all the time a better class of men. They hope to be taken on a cruise to see the world. While this serves as a stimulus to enlistment, it ought not to be necessary, for aside from patriotic motives the navy man should look mainly to the rewards for good conduct and improved efficiency."

"It is not known generally, judging from what I hear and read, that twelve enlisted men are each year promoted to commissions after of course an examination. Some of the men who have got their commissions in this way are among the best officers we have in the navy."

"Do I think Secretary Meyer's reorganization plan has worked out well? Admirably. Its principal recommendation is that it has given the fighting element in the navy a voice in determining what the ships it may have to fight in shall be like."

"I have seen many changes in the navy, the most striking of which has been the creation of the new navy. To the late William C. Whitney as Secretary of the Navy under Cleveland, and a large part of the credit for this due to his leadership, was due. He was a man who was eager for a change, but he would not accomplish much. Whitney introduced businesslike methods into the department. But the new navy was really forced upon us by foreign nations. Our navy in the early days was composed of such obsolete types that the objects of ridicule. Of course there were occasions when American naval vessels felt the effects of confusions of the sea. This, however, was due to the objects of the crews of our warships that were native born Americans. Now they are 95 per cent, which is a very satisfactory condition."

"Do you think the American navy is now keeping abreast of the British and the Germans?" the Admiral was asked. "In my opinion it is keeping abreast of the world's navies. This is the only way of keeping abreast of the world's navies. It is a sign that the American navy is keeping abreast of the times when it is keeping abreast of the world's navies. It is a sign that the American navy is keeping abreast of the times when it is keeping abreast of the world's navies."

PRISONER ESCAPES.

Had Handcuffs on His Wrists but No Shoes on His Feet.

Newburgh, Oct. 10.—With a pair of handcuffs on his wrists and without shoes Joseph Faulter, a Hungarian, is roaming the country in the vicinity of New Windsor, unless he has found some of his countrymen to help him out of his troubles. Faulter was arrested on Sunday morning at New Windsor by Paul Lattick, after the people in the vicinity of Paul Lattick's saloon had chased the Hungarian out of cover, where he had taken refuge after robbing the saloon.

As soon as Faulter had been arrested, the justice of the peace was telephoned and he directed that the captive be handcuffed, placed in a wagon and brought to his place for commitment. Faulter in order to move his hands, about the house had taken his shoes off, and when he was being handcuffed the shoes were placed on his feet, but not tied. The party drove to the home of the justice of the peace, some distance away, and Faulter was the last one in the wagon. The others left on one side of the wagon and the justice of the peace followed. Instead he jumped from the opposite side near the woods and started off. When the pursuers realized in the darkness that he had left they set out to find him. By the side of the wagon where he had landed were the shoes, he practically having jumped out of his shoes in the endeavor to get away. Thus far nothing has been heard of him.

GREAT NIGHT FOR POLLOK.

Arrested for Restaurant Row, Fined, Arrested for Punching Doctor.

Harry Pollok, the promoter of sporting events, who lives at 817 West 133d street and a friend, George Holt, a salesman, of 301 St. Nicholas avenue, were fined $10 apiece in the night court last night for disorderly conduct after they had left the Kaiserhof restaurant at thirty-ninth street and Broadway.

With Mrs. Holt and two others the pair had supper in the dining room on the second floor. At 8 o'clock a piece of bread hit a guest at a nearby table over the eye. He walked to the Pollok table to remonstrate. There was more bread thrown around, and the waiter made a broad square about the Pollok party and escorted them into the street. Pollok, who was with Holt, then proceeded to the restaurant, asked a traffic policeman to arrest him. Holt said he wanted to be arrested, too, and was accommodated.

When the fines had been paid Pollok went back to Broadway. About midnight, Policeman McCarthy saw a street brawl going on in front of 131 West Forty-second street and arrested the fighters. One was Pollok and the other was Dr. Henry A. Russell, of 22 Broome street. Russell said that Pollok had come along the street and struck him in the face without any reason. Pollok had nothing to say. He was taken to the night court charged with assault.

This time Magistrate Stenrod held Pollok in $1,000 bail for examination to-day.

A special court was organized to try the conspirators. The Japanese government expected death sentences. The Japanese government expected death sentences.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 10.—The scheduled ten round bout to night between Battling Nelson and Monte Dale of Denver ended early in the third round when Dale sustained a broken arm. Battling Nelson, the champion, began baring in at the opening of the first round, and so effective was his fighting that the referee called a timeout in the second, the bell alone saving Dale. Nelson apparently outweighed his opponent by fifteen pounds.

GIANTS EASILY DEFEATED.

PHILADELPHIA FOUND PITCHER RUDOLPH'S CURVES.

Youngster Reverts Four Support, While New Yorks Are Puzzled. Left Handed Brownan—Highlanders in a Look On Cardinals Wallop Chicago.

Trying out a new pitcher didn't help the Giants yesterday, for the Philadelphia hit the ball hard and won easily. The Quakers will play a double header at the Polo Grounds to-day, as the game scheduled with the New Yorks for to-morrow has been brought forward so that McGraw's men will have a full day's rest before beginning the series with the Highlanders. The St. Louis Cardinals had a picnic at the expense of the champion Cubs yesterday, as the latter probably did not overtest themselves. The results:

The party drove to the home of the Philadelphia, St. New York, 2.
St. Louis, 13; Chicago, 7.
STANDING OF THE CLUBS:
Chicago 108 48 673 (Cincinnati 79 79 481)
New York 82 52 560 (Brooklyn 64 64 421)
Philadelphia 77 74 510 (Boston 51 101 335)

PHILADELPHIA IN 1, 2, 3, NEW YORK IN 1, 2.
The Highlanders in a body saw the Giants suffer defeat at the hands of the Philadelphia at the Polo Grounds yesterday. Manager McGraw was absent and Capt. Doyle put Rudolph, the former Toronto pitcher, on the slab for his first major league try-out. These hand-picked out the New Yorks in chancery, for the Quakers pounded Rudolph severely and under the cannonade the Giants showed up a bit raggedly in the field.

Brownan, a left hander, pitched a steady game for the visitors. He was hit freely, but the bingles didn't come when they were needed, and besides the Phillies accepted many hard chances in a way that killed off runs, among them being a double play. Altogether it was not a game that could be regarded as characteristic of the Giants and nobody realized this more than the batters, who will be on hand again to-day to make a further expectation.

Rudolph got out of a hole in the first inning by controlling his nerve. With one out Knabe and Bates singled and both advanced a peg on a passed ball. Then Rudolph struck out Bates and Knabe, and under the cannonade of the Philadelphia, New York's half was left as Murray popped to Bransfield.

The Quakers were settled in order in the second inning, Doyle throwing Bransfield out and also catching Louisa. Doyle, while Moran's hand wallop was gathered in by Devore. Although the Giants made two doubles and a single in their half they scored only one run. With one out Devin doubled and scored on Morley's hot drive to centre, but the latter was caught trying to make two bases. Meyers followed with a two bagger but was left on Rudolph's fly to Bates.

After Snodgrass had made a neat running catch of Brennan's low liner in the third Titus laced a double to left and went to third on Knabe's out, after which Rudolph fanned Bates with a puzzling drop. Brennan struck out before Doyle and Snodgrass in the Giants' half.

The visitors made two runs in the fourth. Magee fanned and Grant hit to left for two bases. Bransfield scratched a hit to Bridwell, who threw wildly to catch Grant off third and the latter ran in. Bransfield took third on this misplay and Doylean struck out. Moran walked and Brennan smashed a single to centre, scoring Bransfield. Rudolph intercepted Snodgrass's throw to the plate and Doylean took a single to left and Knabe hit to first and Doylean advanced to second on a single to left. Doylean scored on a single to left and Knabe hit to first and Doylean advanced to second on a single to left. LAWN TENNIS.

Miss Hammond Wins Singles, Miss Green and Miss Bunch Doubles in "Met" Tourney.

Miss Hammond of the West Side Tennis Club successfully defended her title in the women's metropolitan championship singles yesterday by defeating Miss Marie Wagner at 6-2, 6-4. It was by no means a new match, for the game that took place on the courts made accurate out of the question when the players hit with the wind, and the same condition prevailed during the entire afternoon. It was expected that the match would be a good deal closer, but somehow Miss Wagner could never really steady herself while all the time Miss Hammond played with her accustomed coolness and calculation.

The championship doubles went into three sets, the victory going to Miss Bunch of the city, who paired with Miss Dorothy Green of the Merion Cricket Club of Philadelphia. Their opponents were Miss Hammond and Miss Marie Wagner. The match was a very close one, but Miss Bunch and Miss Green were too good for them.
